

Howdy ZSA members,

As the Disney movie Mulan once said "Let's get down to business" and that's what this meeting and this email are all about. Now I know that sounds boring but don't stop reading because we have lots of important information including resume information, cover letter help, how to find internships, and the new t-shirt designs and the t-shirt order form.

Before we get into the nitty gritty of things to do to get a hot girl summer internship we must discuss the animal of the week. The animal of the week was the blanket octopus. The name is due to the "blanket" of webbing that connects the dorsal arms of the female octopi. There is extreme sexual size-dimorphism with the females reaching up to 2m in length and the males only up to 2.4cm. They are very rare to find in the wild which is what gives the blanket octopus its advantage over the ZSA E-Board. If we were to find the Blanket Octopus we give it a 4/10 but it gets a 10/10 if we are unable to find it as the only thing greater than toughness is the ability to not be seen.

We covered where to find internships, how to write a cover letter, and how to make a resume/CV today. For reference both power points along with links to helpful websites for internships have all been linked below.

Speaking of opportunities...a scholarship program is available for any individual with a major in the college of natural science who has completed one semester of research with an MSU faculty member. This scholarship program offers 750$/semester for the 2022-2023 school year and is a great opportunity for both your wallet and your resume. for more information click here and to apply click here. The deadline to apply is February 18th.
